Fresh Fruits & Vegetables from Australia - Price is subjected to season and availability

At Alléosse, we want to preserve the traditional know-how of cheese maturing, but also to protect the entire upstream part of the profession.

This is why it takes several years of experience and perseverance to understand how to age a cheese. First of all, you have to observe it, then touch it, turn it over and wash and brush it with patience and love. This job requires an intimate knowledge of cheeses. Moreover, our working methods and techniques are 100% traditional and entirely manual. The cheeses are selected according to precise criteria: their quality, traceability, the producer's know-how and, of course, their flavour.
